WHETSTONE'S TRIAL.

The Evidence Favorable for an Acquittal.

The Court Record—Really Transfers—General Gleanings of the Junction City.

The Whetstone trial was resumed as usual before Judge Anderson yesterday morning. The attendance of spectators was as large as on previous days, who elicited much interest in its progress.

Sergeant Smith, who testified the previous day, was recalled. In answer to an interrogation of the defendant's attorney he stated that after taking the pistol from Whetstone he had it for about five minutes and gave it to Mr. Keck.

Dr. W. D. Springer, who was called to attend to the wounds of McLean, was sworn and testified. When he arrived he found the deceased lying on the floor with the sleeve of his coat ripped open. He found a bullet wound on the left arm, about an inch and a half from the shoulder. The bullet passed through the arm, struck the second rib, turned downward and grazed the third rib, passed into the chest cavity. The bullet then passed upward through the upper portion of the left lung and the middle lobe of the right lung and lodged in the plural cavity on the right side. Witness attended McLean until he died the following Sunday morning. When he arrived at the scene McLean was lying on his back; he probed for the bullet, but the probe would not enter the wound until the arm was raised.

Re-cross—When McLean was shot he was standing with the arm raised. Dr. J. S. Gorkin was next called. He examined the wound on the night of March 5. James E. Howells was next called and sworn. He knew both defendant and the deceased. Saw defendant in Shortt's saloon about 10:30 o'clock. When he entered Whetstone was talking to Henry Steele, and overheard him say to Steele, "I am around to Keck's saloon. Whetstone asked him and he and Steele went together. They first went to the bar and then to the wine room, which was occupied by McLean, Hilles and St. John. About ten minutes after he entered the room he heard a shot fired. Before the shot was fired McLean lifted the room."

The deposition of George Stetson, who is now in Oregon, was read, but nothing new was brought out in it.

The deposition of Ogden Hilles was also taken.

Sheriff G. R. Reimann was put on the stand and recognized the pistol which Whetstone used on the fatal night as being his own and remembered loading it to the defendant about four months previous to the shooting. When he recovered the gun after the shooting there were two empty shells in it.

Cross-examined—Witness loaned the gun to Whetstone while he was acting as deputy sheriff under him as they were both going to the depot to see the train.

Afternoon Session.

Upon coming in in the afternoon the deposition of H. G. Gieker, formerly a police officer of Ogden city, was read. Gieker was by McLean's side immediately after he fell and heard McLean say: "My God! My God! Whetstone has murdered me!"

Gieker rushed out of the front door of the saloon to find Whetstone, but was not present when Whetstone was arrested.

When the reading of the deposition was finished, the prosecution rested and the defense called Judge H. P. Henderson.

Judge Henderson testified that the defendant was the officer of the First district court when the witness was presiding judge of the district. He testified to the good character of Whetstone, but when asked regarding McLean's reputation for peace and quiet, District Attorney Alford was on his feet in an instant, objecting to the introduction of evidence tending to show a reputation bad in the community, and argued strongly against the admission of such evidence, citing several decisions to show that the character of the deceased could not be brought into question unless it was to show that the defendant was attacked.

Attorney Evans for the defense replied to the arguments of the prosecution. He was interrupted by the judge, who decided that the evidence might be admitted.

Witness replied the deceased had had a reputation for peace and quiet in the community. Witness then testified that he saw how he would act if he about to encounter fellow-man in deadly combat. Had seen the exhibition more than once and described to the jury how McLean would stand. He would place his pistol in his waist band under his pantaloons ready to pull it, and place it on his left arm and with his left arm as a rest to steady his aim.

Cross-examination dealt mainly on the question of the reputation of the deceased, and the witness was examined very closely and also as to Whetstone's reputation. Testimony the same as on direct examination.

Arthur Pratt called—Live in Salt Lake; territorial auditor; was formerly United States deputy marshal in charge of Ogden district; was intimate with McLean for fourteen years; his reputation was also that he was a man of broadminded and unimpeachable character.

Bowman Cannon—Live in Salt Lake; deputy United States marshal for sixteen years; mostly in Salt Lake. Knows Henry Whetstone ever since 1884 quite intimately. Never heard Whetstone's reputation for peace and quiet. Also know McLean well; saw McLean in Salt Lake city and talked to him prior to last year's spring election; conversation was good; reputation for truth and veracity of deceased bad.

Cross—Whetstone ought to have known McLean's reputation for truth and veracity and peace and quiet; knew McLean for fourteen years; his reputation was also that he was a man of broadminded and unimpeachable character.

Cross—Whetstone ought to have known McLean's reputation for truth and veracity and peace and quiet; knew McLean for fourteen years; his reputation was also that he was a man of broadminded and unimpeachable character.

R.G.W. WASTCASTILLA

Railroad Begins Suit for Possession of the Place.

Scandinavians' Rail-Cannon's Nomination Not Approved by Provoites—Miscellaneous Notes and Personals.

The Rio Grande Western Railway took their initial step yesterday toward capturing Castilla Springs, notice having been served by the company upon Mrs. Southworth, demanding that she vacate the premises located on the tracks running through the resort. The railway company will contest their rights to Castilla in the courts, and are determined upon getting hold of as much land there as possible.

Southworth Brothers were consulted as to what there was in this bluff of the railroad, and state that it had hitherto been asking for a deed to twenty-five feet, which was left for the consideration of their attorney, and have now set out to secure what they can get.

They are very deeply concerned in the matter and believe the railroad will get only their right of way, which will result in hardship to the resort. It is evident, however, that the railroad people have a ready eye upon this choice mountain resort, and will make every effort possible to annoy the owners until they force them into some compromise which will put it under their control. Such means will not obtain with Southworth Bros., which is well known to all who know them.

Miscellaneous Notes.

The wedding of Bob M. Cunningham and Alice E. Vance has been announced to take place Sept. 21. Both are well known and have many friends in Provo. Bob is a traveling man and has a way about him which always wins a welcome wherever he goes. Alice is a well-known social hostess and has been a very successful one.

The Scandinavians spent yesterday afternoon at the lake resort, and in the evening they attended a ball at the opera house. They depart for their homes this morning.

Democrats in Provo are of the opinion that the nomination of Cannon means a walk-over for the Democratic party. His record is looked upon as a sure guarantee of defeat as soon as it becomes known to the public.

All the contracts for the Southworth building on Center street have been let, and it will now be pushed to a speedy completion.

Found Dead in His Office—Melancholia Brought on by Drink, the Cause of the Rash Act.

The other morning our town was somewhat excited over the report that one of our doctors had committed suicide by taking poison.

Upon investigation it was found that Dr. P. H. Butler had been found dead in his office and had left writing to the effect that it had been a deliberate act on his part; that domestic and financial troubles together with the demon drink had produced melancholia and he saw nothing in the world living for. Hydro chloric acid was found in his stomach.

He was born in Ohio and leaves a wife and child in Illinois. His father was an army surgeon and he served through the civil war. He was buried on the farm of Mr. James Chauvigny by members of his lodge yesterday at 3 o'clock p. m.

He practiced for many years in Coalville, Samtont county, Ohio, where he was a popular and successful physician.

Cool nights and warm days are the order and the white robes of frost delay his coming, and vegetables and fruits are being with each other to escape his embrace and maturity.

VERNAL, Sept. 14, 1892.

PAYSON POINTS.

Messrs. Evans and Faust from Lihl creamery, are here and will open a branch next Monday by purchasing milk, separating the cream and returning parties their skimmed milk. Payments will be per hundred pounds of cream in weekly payments.

If there prove sufficient quantities to justify, they will purchase the Payson Creaming and Creamery company's machinery and permanently establish a good business here. We hope so at least.

OTHER ITEMS.

The opera house was lighted by electric lamps last night for the first time, with good effect. Some thirty lights shone brilliantly. The wiring connections were put in by George Finlayson, one of our own boys.

Henry Nebeker puts in good time rathling the freight from the depot to the merchants.

John Goertel is still among us, but thanks his family will be free from dupeharity by Sunday, when he will be farewelled for Soda Springs, thence to McGregor, Ia., his home.

Ellsworth, Harsett & McGhan, contractors and builders, are extremely busy. The country is embracing the buildings and residences now in progress, viz: Douglas & Sons' store, Marsh & Co.'s store, Mayor Lemmon's residence, three cottages on Fairview street, for George Fairbanks, Samuel Stark and Heuben Lockwood, also a residence for T. Riekeny, besides two dwellings at Spring Lake villa for L. S. Huan and William W. Harsett.

Other buildings are in progress under contracts of Brimhall & Bates and Erlanson & Son.

Times do not seem so dull when there is much work to be accomplished.

Amasa Potter's new residence begins to look well from the bench. It is nearing completion and is a very neat frame residence.

Boils.

Boils according to Dr. King, an eminent authority "are generally connected with derangements of the liver and stomach." While the older Sarsaparilla contains potent which aggravates eruptions, Joy's is a stomachic and bowel corrective, and is the only one that is so. Its regulating influence causes the blood to dry up and disappear almost immediately. A case in point.

"I had boils break out on my neck. One had burst. I took Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and in a few days the boils had dried up. In the spring of 1890 I took one of the other Sarsaparillas and the result was so many eruptions, itching and don't let me take it any more. I used it this year with the above satisfactory results."

J. NEWMAN, Alameda, Cal.

Formerly with the "Alta California," S. F. Robert Walsh, with Wells Fargo & Co., and scores of other San Franciscans report the same experience. It avoids the use of the lancet.
